Arkansas

His Excellency visits Arkansas and joins the Marshallese community in celebrating Mani Day.

His Excellency David Kabua departed New York for Arkansas and was greeted by the marshallese community at the airport arrival hall. The sound of ukulele and the melody of the marshallese welcome song protruding through the arrival hall, onlookers seemed pleased and felt welcomed too.

This is the first time President Kabua visited the marshallese community in Arkansas since the pandemic began 2 years ago. President Kabua will attend the Mani Day which will be held on 24 September followed by a townhall/marshallese community meeting. President will also meet with Springdale Mayor Doug Sprouse; Tyson Officials and tour Tyson Plant; meet with Jared Cleveland, Superintendent of the Springdale School District; meet with CEO Community Clinic Judd Semingson and Bates Clinic, Marshallese organizations, Arkansas Coalition of Marshallese, Marshallese Educational Initiative and other establishments and institutions that have tremendously helped and assisted the marshallese community here in Arkansas.
